The Dist: Magistrate of Kolar has issued the notification in question apparently on the strength of the Circular issued by Govt. on 7th March 1929. (His ref: to section 36(1) R of the Police Regulation appears to be a mistake for section 42(1)). The first two sentences of that Circular seem to imply that action may be taken by the Dist: Magts: themselves instead of approaching Govt under the Ep: Diseases Regn: although the 3d sentence is sufficiently explicit.

The Dist. Magte: has no power to prohibit the assemblage of persons from outside, under the Police Regn.] He should have reported to Govt through the Director for necy: action instead of issuing a notification himself. This will be pointed out to him and a circular letter clearly explaining the scope of Section 42(1) of the Police Regn & the procedure to be followed in cases in which assemblage of persons is required to be prohibited, will be proposed.

In the meantime, the Director may perhaps be requested to state, in consultation with the Dist: Board President, whether the assemblage of persons alone should be prohibited or the jatra itself. The jatra commences from the 2d Feb.

Section 42(1) thereof has to be read with section 36(1) R, & no action outside the latter section is contemplated in the former section.

The Revenue Commissioner stated that the prohibition of cattle fairs had interfered with the disposal of cattle and that the ryots were complaining that this was operating as another adverse factor in addition to fall in prices. He said that he was making a representation on this subject. Where the prevalence of cholera or other epidemic requires the stopping of fairs, there is no help. Wherever the risk is not great or precautions are possible to prevent any risk feared, the alternative of allowing Jatras to be held may be considered in consultation with the Director of Health and the Revenue Commissioner.

Orders prohibiting Jatras may be arranged to be issued some days beforehand so that the public may have sufficient notice and may be saved the trouble of moving their cattle to the places of fairs and learning there that the fairs have been prohibited.

In continuation of Circular No.G.8519-30/Sanitary 21-30-104 dated 10th February 1931, District Magistrates and other officers concerned are informed that the reported prevalence of an epidemic in places at some considerable distance from a proposed Jatra should not be regarded as constituting a sufficient reason for recommending its prohibition, particularly in cases where an important cattle fair is held in connection with the Jatra. About two weeks before the Jatra the conditions prevailing at the place of the Jatra and its immediate neighbourhood (which may roughly be taken as the country around within a radius of 30 miles i.e. about two days' march) should be carefully studied and if there are no signs of active or recent infection therein, the arrangements for the Jatra may ordinarily be allowed to proceed. Even if a few places in the neighbourhood, as explained above, are found to be infected, it is for the responsible local officers to consider whether, instead of prohibiting the Jatra and Cattle Fair, it would not be feasible and sufficient to prevent persons from the infected parts resorting to the Jatra. At the place where the Jatra is to be held, all possible precautions should be taken to prevent the outbreak and spread of the epidemic.

No unnecessary risks should, of course be taken in matters concerning public health, the interests of which must be regarded as paramount. At the same time, however, the stoppage of an important cattle fair involves serious economic loss to the rural population and should be recommended only if, on a detailed survey of the local conditions, the adoption of such a course is found to be clearly necess-necessary for the protection of the public.

Where it is decided to prohibit a Jatra the decision should be notified to the people of the localities concerned at least a week beforehand pending the issue of Government orders which (as explained in the circular already quoted) should be applied for in good time.

By Order,

A Seva Alam

for Chief Secretary to Government.
